To be bound by words or thought is a type of commitment. The test of commitment is action...follow through...determination.

The students of the University of Tennessee, Memphis are BOUND & DETERMINED to accomplish great things, both in their personal and professional lives; to pursue & achieve dreams to find fulfillment.

"Regret for things we did can be tempered by time; it is the regret for the things we did not do that is inescapable."

— Sydney J. Harris

...to have a student's life!

Adage #1:

"The great thing in this world is not so much where we are, but in what direction we are moving."

-Oliver Wendell Holmes

However...

We are bound and determined to take a walk back in time through this academic year...you'll soon discover that contained within the pages of this book is proof-positive that,

"If you go flying back through time, and you see somebody else flying forward into the future, it's probably best to avoid eye contact."

Top: You must be careful not to overload M1's with information like. "Please locate the LT. Staff"
Middle: UT students develop excellent interpersonal skills.
Bottom: The Halloween Motinger #1K was full of "Manseman!"
To Develop A Multiculturally And Diverse Attitude

Adage #2:
Only when the questions become more important than the answers will the solutions emerge.

But Consider...

A human being can alter his/her life by altering the attitude of her/his mind.

"I've sailed upon the seven seas and stopped in every land, I've seen the wonders of the world, not yet one common man."

- Maya Angelou

We stand on the heads of our ancestors to raise our children to the stars.
Opposite Page: UT System President, Joe Johnson, appreciates the determination of our students.
Learn to enjoy the path, the process and the journey.

"If A is success in life, then A equals X plus Y plus Z. Work is X. Y is play, and Z is keeping your mouth shut."

Albert Einstein

Fortune Cookie

The only (person) who is really free is the one who can turn down invitations to dinner but give an excuse.
—Jules Renard
To know oneself
one should assert oneself.
- Albert Camus

"I hope life isn't a big joke, because I don't get it."
You have everything but one thing: madness. A man needs a little madness or else—he never dares cut the rope and be free.

- Zorba the Greek
In 1980, the Imhotep Society became an official and recognized organization on campus, for the purpose of honoring students, faculty, staff, and alumni who have significantly contributed to student life and student programs at UT Memphis. It was recognized that many student leaders, in performing their functions and assignments, may have sacrificed high academic accomplishments and thus did not receive recognition through those organizations which traditionally honor students for high academic achievement.

While the principle objective of the Society is to recognize and reward student leadership and service roles on campus, a secondary goal is to inspire students to continue leadership and service roles as alumni of the University.

Asklepios is a word derived from the name Aesculapius, the Greek god of medicine and healing. Aesculapius was honored and worshipped throughout the Greek world by persons seeking the healing powers of the physician. Temples were erected in honor of Aesculapius near healing springs or high mountains. Those who worshipped him were known as Aesculapians (Asklepiatics). In the ancient city of Memphis, on the Nile River, there was a temple where persons went for worship and care. In our own city of Memphis, on the Mississippi River, people come to our Asklepieion for healing and care.

The 1995 Yearbook Staff was determined to gift-wrap memories...to tie them up with a bow and bind them into a package.

In the beginning, this moved slowly. But the feeling grew with each succeeding week into an overwhelming sense of responsibility to chronicle the ins and outs... the ups and downs... the academic and private. Appreciation and sympathy for editors who produced past yearbooks became a common feeling and an effective barometer in what became a personal quest for each of you to record history.

I truly value each of you personally, and for your unique contributions to this yearbook. I am deeply grateful to everyone for the hundreds of stressful hours of planning, drawing, cataloguing, and redrawing which you so unselfishly gave and your good humored responses to the urgent "get over here now" phone calls (at all hours) which it took to produce this book and create the stuff of memories.
The central administration of the University of Tennessee, headed by the president of the University, who is directly accountable to the Board of Trustees, has general responsibility for the overall operation of the University.

The Board of Trustees, the University's governing body, consists of five elected members: the Governor of Tennessee, the President of the University, the Commissioner of Education, the Commissioner of Agriculture, the Executive Director of the Tennessee Higher Education Commission, and others additional appointed members, including the students.

Its purpose is to establish policies governing the scope of the educational and research opportunities to be offered by the University as well as policies governing its operation in general. The Board has full authority to determine and to control the activities and policies of all organizations that bear the name of the University. It also exercises the election, appointment, and removal of all the officers, trustees, and employees of the University.

There are five Vice-Chancellors serving the UT Memphis campus:

- Robert L. Blackwell, Business and Finance; Raymond H. Colson, Administration; Glenda A. O'Connor, Development and Alumni Affairs; Jesse F. McClure, University Relations; William C. Robinson, Student Affairs.

ALLIED HEALTH DOES IT TOGETHER!
Dentistry is now in the most exciting time in its history, offering a challenging and exciting future. The College of Dentistry was founded in Nashville in 1878. It is the oldest dental college in the South, and one of the seven oldest in this country. It was located in Nashville until 1911, when the Board of Trustees moved the college to Memphis. In that year, authorities of the present University of Memphis transferred to the Board of Trustees all of its equipment and the good will of its Dental Department. Through this union, the facilities and equipment of the two institutions were merged into one college.

Delta Sigma Delta

Xi Psi Phi Dental Fraternity is cordially known as the ZIPS. Several members reside in the fraternity house at 249 Garland Street. There is a fully equipped lab which is always available for use. Intramural Sports, Friday Happy Hours, and theme parties are some of the social activities that ZIPS are involved in. Xi Psi PHI enjoys serving UT-Memphis both socially and academically.
The College of Graduate Health Sciences offers a choice of nine programs for study and places its students at the forefront of exciting developments in research. Until 1960, the Graduate School in Memphis operated as a division of the Graduate School in Knoxville. The Graduate School of Medical Sciences was then established as a separate entity with its own Graduate Council and bylaws. The Graduate School became the College of Graduate Health Sciences in October 1987.

The Graduate Health Sciences: Students enrolled in Graduate Health Sciences at the University of Tennessee are learning the skills and tools that are necessary in today's competitive job market. Students from around the world that study here strive towards either a masters or doctoral degree. They work and study in any of the many departments that make up the Graduate Health Sciences. The faculty is of high caliber and many come from prestigious institutions. This enables students to do competitive research in the field of their choice. Basically what you find in this college is many hard working people interested in solving problems and developing ideas.

Alpha Omega Alpha is the only national honor medical society in the world. Its raison d'être can be expressed in a phrase: to recognize and perpetuate excellence in the medical profession. AOA is organized for educational purposes exclusively and not for profit; its aims shall be the promotion of scholarship and research in medical schools, the encouragement of a high standard of character and conduct among medical students and graduates, and the recognition of high achievement in medical science, practice and related fields. To fulfill the role it has set for itself, Alpha Omega Alpha elects outstanding medical students, graduates (house officers), faculty and honorary members to its roster. Scholastic excellence is a key criterion but not the only one for election to AOA: capacity for leadership, compassion, integrity, service to the school and the community at large, and fairness in dealing with one's colleagues are also to be considered.

In an effort to fulfill its goals, AOA sponsors a number of programs, including Alpha Omega Alpha Day and the annual Distinguished Visiting Professorship, which is designed to enrich the educational environment of the medical school. Moreover, the Society sponsors two annual competitions for students: The Student Essay Awards and the Student Research Fellowships.

People & Places

Mary Deborah Bowles Crom, doctoral candidate in the College of Nursing, has been appointed by Governor Ned McWherter to the UT Board of Trustees. As a member of the board, Crom has all the rights and responsibilities of other board members, including voting on issues. Crom serves as a representative for all the students in the UT system. Her appointment is effective through June 30, 1995.

The student trustee is selected on a rotating basis from one of the four UT campuses.
At UT Memphis, student applications for the trustee position are received by the SGAEC who nominate three finalists after applicant interviews and screening. The finalists are approved by Chancellor Bill Rice and forwarded to the governor who makes the appointment.

The profession of pharmacy is a career that will provide you with an exciting and rewarding future and one that is quite varied as well. Today’s pharmacists are an integral part of the health care team and their influence on drug therapy has far reaching effects. The challenges in dealing with the future therapeutic dilemmas of the elderly, as well as future changes in the health care system, will continue to make pharmacy a challenging profession.

Pharmacy
Michelle Skinner not only excels in academics but also serves as SNPSA National President.
When Dr. Dick Gourley came to the University of Tennessee as Dean of the College of Pharmacy in 1990, he had a grand vision. Among one of his many plans for the college was to implement an international student exchange program. Uniting cultures cultivated over his 25 years in the profession, Dean Gourley proposed a one-month internship during the fourth-year rotations in a number of cities around the world. The fine students to participate in the program graduated in 1991. The program expanded to 10 sites in eight countries. The College of Pharmacy provides a travel grant to help defray costs of traveling to such locales as New Zealand, Sweden, Holland and Denmark. Housing is provided by the host site.

In 1991, a site in Holland had its first UT student. Twenty students traveled abroad the month of April and spent a month. Many had the chance to travel during their month off in May. This program served to broaden the horizons of its students. The many differences, cultural as well as professional, were overcome with little trouble. The number one choice of students was Australia. Students who chose Japan incurred the most “food shock” and the most trouble with language. (Read the spoiler: Spaniard in the cold used frequent proficiency of a language other than English.) New Zealand was the only country thus far to extend the program to a two-month exchange by sending a student to the United States. Though, other countries have seen professionals instead of students.

Pharmacy
Class of 1997: Bound to More Than the Classroom

Determinated to Succeed in Two Very Different Fields

Afan Wesley struck many classmates as strange the moment he opened his mouth. As an African American with an English accent, he was considered an oddity. At well over six feet tall and no hair he always stood out in a crowd.

Allen’s uniqueness brought him recognition in a very competitive arena. In Fall of 1994, Allen signed with the prestigious Click modeling agency. He was discovered by a local talent scout and invited to New Orleans to compete with other hopefuls. Allen was somewhat swept off his feet by all of the glamorous models.

He was happy to be given the opportunity to show his talent. Allen’s “look” is very hot in German fashion magazines. Shoes keep him on the road as he splits his time between a heavy class load and modeling. He hopes to expand his work, but time constraints limit some possibilities.

Allen taught aerobics at the French Riveria Spa. He has been in national aerobics competitions in years past. He continued aerobics to keep in shape and to compete with the other sometimes younger models.

Me-me-me-me!
Bound to Have Her Voice Heard

Claire McClanahan knows more than medications, she also knows how to hold people's attention with her beautiful voice.
Claire has been singing since she was 6yr, and began taking lessons during her Sophomore year of high school. She is no stranger to music since her father is a painter and musician of music, and, her mom is a concert pianist.

However, it was Claire's voice alone that won her a scholarship for music at Middle Tennessee State University. She studied opera and classical music there for five years. She was a member of the chamber choir, concert choir and jazz ensemble.

Claire has done a multitude of solo work including concerts with the Nashville symphony. She won the Middle Tennessee State University concert competition two years in a row. She has been a cast member in several operas and theater productions including "Ragtime" and "The Fantastics." Claire is bound to succeed in both the intellectual and musical arenas. Though her coursework is heavy Claire hopes to break into the Memphis concert circuit while pursuing her Pharm D./PhD.

Academy of Students of Pharmacy

The Academy of Students of Pharmacy (ASP) is the major professional organization at the University of Tennessee College of Pharmacy. The goal of this organization is to promote student participation in pharmacy and the process of molding the future of the profession. Besides taking part in events on campus and with the parent organization, American Pharmaceutical Association, ASP is also active in the Memphis Area Pharmaceutical Society and the Tennessee Pharmacists Association. The chapter attended the APha regional meeting in the Fall with one of its largest turnouts of students. In the Spring of 1995, ASP took part in the Tennessee Pharmacists Association mid-year meeting in Nashville, at which two new resolutions proposed by the chapter were accepted. The annual meeting in Orlando was a success.

ASP actively works to help the Memphis community through blood pressure screenings at area malls and churches, drug information services, and programs about poison prevention and helping make homes safe for newborns. They also sponsored a fair featuring Pharmaceutical manufacturers. The chapter worked to promote pharmacy and show its evolution through programs at area high schools and the UT campus.

Kappa Psi is one of two professional pharmacy fraternities. The Psi chapter has been active at the University of Tennessee for many years. Kappa Psi prided itself on its strong membership and campus wide involvement.

During the 1994-1995 school year, Kappa Psi held rush events including Casino Night at the Coon Belle and a formal at the Greeland Service Projects included collecting canned goods for MIFA, donating toys to patients at St. Jude Hospital and Christmas caroling with the residents of Oakville Nursing Home. The brothers collected more than 300 canned goods.

The brothers went to Little Rock for the Province 7 Mid-Year meeting. This included ceremonial events as well as planning and some fun. Kappa Psi decided to support Special Olympics for the next year.

Kappa Psi bought a new House in Midtown Memphis. They spent a year painting and cleaning to spruce up the house.

Phi Delta Chi

Phi Delta Chi, one of two professional pharmacy fraternities at the University of Tennessee College of Pharmacy, dedicated itself to the advancement of pharmacy through community service, personal development and brotherhood.

The Omega chapter of Phi Delta Chi adopted Forest Park adjoining the U.T. campus in the Spring of 1994. In honor of their founding fathers a cherry tree was planted on November 3. Phi Delta Chi participated in the Memphis wide Glad Bag-a-Thon in April. In addition to donating canned goods to the Memphis Food Bank, conducting hypertension screenings at the Oak Court Mall and Highland Heights Pharmacy, the brothers also adopted four angels from the Salvation Army’s Angel Tree. The 19 pledges prepared and served a meal to the families at the Ronald McDonald House.

Numerous fundraisers were conducted to support the Phi Delta Chi Grand Council to be held in August 1995 in Memphis. The Omega chapter was honored to be asked to host this biannual convention.

Social Work is a challenging profession offering a wide range of career opportunities. Social workers are trained to perform several different functions with their clients and in the community: (1) counselor, (2) mediator, (3) advocate, and (4) case manager. The field of social work is constantly changing to meet the needs of society, and social work students must learn to anticipate future problems and prepare to deal with them.

The College of Social Work is made up of a diverse student body. Some students have degrees in Nursing, Psychology, Education, Business, and English. Students are only accepted for the Fall semester, and completed applications are due on or before March 1st. The University of Tennessee has three Colleges of Social Work with locations on the Knoxville, Nashville, and Memphis campuses. The central campus is in Knoxville, Tennessee.
Faculty members have a wide variety of experiences and educational backgrounds. Currently, the faculty consists of six doctoral level professors and two non-doctoral professors. Dr. Susan Vickers and Dr. Karen Knox are new faculty members who came aboard for the Fall '94 semester. The College of Social Work is scouting for new professors who will bring more diversity to the college.

Staff members serve as a source of comfort to those of us who wish to burden them with our academic or personal problems. Mrs. Ann Smith has been with the college for eighteen years, Mrs. Paula Moore three years, and Mrs. Patricia Christian seven years.
The College of Social Work held its first Bicentennial celebration on November 11, 1994. The celebration also included an awards ceremony for social workers who have been committed to working with students in their field practice. Many alumni and current students named out for the event. Key people who also attended the celebration were: Dr. Janice Shank, Dean UTCSW and Dr. John Peters, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs, UTK. Dr. Susan Yickerschaff, Assistant Professor presented, "Health Care Reform and New Roles of Social Work."

The ceremony concluded with a panel discussion on the future of social work amidst health care reform. Members of the panel included Ellen Schmidt, LCSW, Case Management; Eddie Holmes, SW Graduate Student; Brian O'Malley, Executive Director, Catholic Charities; Dr. Stan Young, Executive Director, Northside Mental Health Center, and Norma Crooks, Director of Social Work, Baptist Memorial Hospital.
